Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Cancer Prevention and Control: 1986 Annual Report, October 1, 1985 September 30, 1986 This report describes the intramural research program of the Division of Cancer Prevention and Control (DCPC), one of the four major program divisions of the National Cancer Institute. The DCPC has the responsibility for all cancer control research and related program activities under the National Cancer Plan, as well as research to develop, refine and validate methods of cancer prevention. The overall cancer prevention and control program has changed significantly over the past several years, with renewed emphasis on scientific validation of the methods to control cancer, development of programs to stimulate the involvement of communities and organizations in cancer control, efforts to expand our current knowledge of cancer prevention and validate methods to reduce the incidence of cancer, and surveillance programs to track progress and problems in cancer. Organization Figure 1 outlines the DCPC organization. The Division consists of three major program, each led by an Associate Director. The Office of the Division Director provides overall coordination and direction and analytic program support. Each program is described briefly below. The Prevention Program is charged with planning and supporting both intramural and extramural research in chemoprevention, diet and cancer, and cancer detection. In addition, this organizational unit serves as the focal point for coordinating diet, nutrition, and cancer activities across the NCI divisions. This program houses the Cancer Prevention Studies Branch, one of two intramural branches. The Centers and Community Oncology (CCO) Program supports shared research resources in cancer centers and applied research resources in the delivery of treatment, continuing care, and rehabilitation of patients with cancer. Within the Division of Cancer...
